

Image-, Color- and Sound Language of Heavenly Beings as Opposed to Human Communication

My spirit of love welcomes you and the inner people once again in the light of revelation. You asked for your heavenly siblings, who went out to be a bright star here in the dark fall area for the apostate deities in their night.

You chose the topic of today's message and proffered it to me. Today your human consciousness received an explanation of images from its inner soul as to how the celestial beings communicate with each other. Therefore, your super-consciousness is already prepared to receive more comprehensive instructions of my universal primal spirit from the divine love stream that I offer to the inner people so that their souls in the afterlife will have an easier time accepting and understanding the heavenly language through the pure beings. For them, this information is a great advantage because with most souls, the ability to recollect the celestial communications of the past is covered up by many earthly assimilations and now, by reading this message, this storage in their souls will become active.

The messages of the celestial light beings are always marked with certain colors from which they can immediately recognize the meaning of their statement in a continuous series of images, that is, what a being wants to communicate to them in spirit. Through sent-out images from their consciousness that are always designed for recognition with a colorful outline and a symbol, the heavenly beings announce the direction of life of their voice message. When you move to the next row of images, it is outlined in a different shade so that the other being immediately recognizes from the altered message color that the previous topic has ended. Through the different shades of the images sent, which have been set forever in the shade and their brightness levels according to the areas of life of the total creation and the evolutionary steps of the beings, the celestial beings quickly recognize in which direction an explanation or message is moving.

The foundation for this ingenious and colorful way of communicating and understanding among the celestial beings was once laid by your heavenly primal parents for the cosmic life. Thus, they have inherited this beautiful and intelligible communication hereditary to all pure celestial beings, that is, all heavenly beings have adopted it unchanged by accepting the heavenly laws. Up to today's cosmic moment, this communication is used by them.

As you already know, the celestial beings speak in word, sound, and imagery. To simplify and save energy, they often only communicate in colorful images. It is more clearly possible for them to communicate with the beings in the lower consciousness, as otherwise, those beings might feel irritated and disturbed by the highly vibrating sounds of their higher consciousness language. The communication or message-related means of the celestial beings is always harmonized or adapted in sound to their evolution-related consciousness. Although they have different levels of evolution, they still have good communication with each other through the colorful image messages that can be supplemented and extended by me, the impersonal deity system in the primal central sun, according to the state of consciousness of a being if a being wants to understand and grasp a message from higher evolution areas in even more detail.

I repeat for better understanding: The celestial beings always share the equally-vibrating being in the sound of their consciousness of their state of evolution, but when they are outside their planet and visit low-vibrating or more highly developed beings, then they only use colorful image messages. When they are together and have something to say to each other, they sense in each other what kind of image message is appropriate at the moment. That is, through the aura contact with their siblings, they immediately sense from of their state of consciousness what kind of message they should choose so that the sibling can understand them to a large extent. Thus, misunderstandings are almost impossible.

Should the image messages nevertheless still present small ambiguities to the sibling that looks at an image message in the consciousness and begins to interpret it, then help comes in the form of my explanation from inside it, the life essence of its being, and explains to it the message of another sibling down to the smallest detail. But this is very rare because most of the celestial beings have matured so much as to be able to independently interpret each image message for themselves and to understand exactly what might then need to be done if the image message contains a request to act.

This is our image-message language that I too, God in the I Am, use to communicate with the celestial beings. My spirit of love from the primal central sun can also be understood by the celestial beings in the tone and in the image, depending on how their spiritual maturity requires it or makes it possible.

As you now know, the celestial beings communicate with each other in coherent images that each have different meanings and relate to a particular area of life. When they change their topic, the color of the frame instantly changes so that the other sibling outside of their planet and evolution-related consciousness can accurately recognize the new direction of a topic and adapt itself. Their images are transferred similarly to how you people behave in letter writing. You let the reader recognize with a paragraph that you are now changing or transitioning to another topic. This also happens when speaking with a short speech break. Skillful speakers change the tone of their voice as they transition to another topic. But your language communication is much too inaccurate and very complicated compared to the heavenly way, that is why you get so many misunderstandings in statements and messages.

This is because each of you has a different human and spiritual consciousness. Just the pronunciation and the different understanding of individual words can totally confuse you, and already misunderstandings are inevitable. Truly, your conversations are always accompanied by the danger of being misunderstood. What's more, people who are opinionated often come up with arguments because of just one misunderstood or misinterpreted word, or if a word is misplaced during writing, the meaning can be completely different and irritating to someone else.

Many people are narrow-minded and believe that your language is perfect to understand and that any normally educated person should be able to understand the spoken word well. But this is not so. When I hear you in your messages, then with each statement, you are missing detailed information for clarification. Your consciousness is different among each other, so in speaking and writing, each person expresses themselves differently, and the meaning of an explanation comes out either clearly or vaguely. Thus, people are not spared from misunderstandings.

When you try to explain something, your human senses cannot produce a comprehensive and farsighted description of the image most of the time. This is only possible for a spiritualized person who lives more on the inside, very close to my source of love.

It is possible for him to bring far-reaching explanations from the inner consciousness of his highly developed soul to the super-consciousness. But he needs a good vocabulary to put into words the inner images that he sees in his explanations. Sadly, very few inner people in my divine proximity can do this because their minds are no longer authoritative and important for their lives. Everything they need to understand and how they should behave in different situations their soul tells them from within on the level of emotion.

Of course, this is a great advantage for these inner people, but they repeatedly experience great problems with strong matter-of-fact people who often complain about their poor language skills and often inadequate explanations and feel that they need to express themselves much more clearly to them, according to their consciousness or their language skills. This is a disadvantage for people with little empathy who believe that their language is very clear and rich in content for describing an event of this world. In my view, however, their language is still very narrow and mostly focused only on human consciousness, which can really only think and speak shortsightedly. In contrast, the low vocabulary of a mature person with high spirituality is linked and has a far-sighted content-related imprint. In it, there are spiritual explanations from personal experiences and a profound understanding of the heavenly laws that have been realized. This spiritualized person manages to express his experiences without an instructive nature and character appreciation.

Truly, the God-bound people should become accustomed as righteous celestial returnees to perceiving their words from within that the inner spiritual consciousness wants to impart to them. But most spiritually-minded people immediately express their thoughts instead of waiting to see what comes from the inside. This is the inner language that comes out more and more in the imagery, when man practices expressing something slowly and consciously. It is then animated by the inner power of the soul and by my love spirit that dwells in every being.

Anyone who now tries to speak slowly succeeds more and more in establishing the inner connection to his soul that would gladly and joyfully communicate with its person. But unfortunately, man immediately expresses what his mind tells him most of the time, without thinking. Therefore, please think a little more about practicing slow speech so that you not only speak from your shortsighted mind, but more and more lawfully from the spiritual farsightedness of your soul.

Please make the first attempts and slowly practice expressing your inner emotions and feelings, then you will manage more and more to stop yourself on the inside in my proximity. If you ask me for guidance in the morning prayer and put your will in my hands, I will give you lawful impulses through your soul to express them. But the prerequisite for that is that you begin to say the words very slowly. Then I will have the opportunity to give you short impulses that will bring a deeper meaning to your articulation.

If you want, then start immediately because you do not have much time left in earthly life for many lawful changes that help you and especially your soul to reach a higher consciousness and come out of gravity.

This is a heartfelt request of my love spirit to you who have recognized my voice of love through the Herald.
